Atlas of the European novel, 1800-1900. [Franco Moretti] -- Moretti explores the fascinating connections between literature and space, illuminating the geographical assumptions of 19th century novels and the geographical reach of particular authors and genres ...

Atlas of the European Novel 1800-1900 - Franco Moretti

Moretti's Atlas of the European Novel is the kind of book that makes me happy to be a literature student. His style is almost literary in its vividness (although I would say the sentences without verbs are too numerous) and mobility. His project is new and exciting, and in my view nicely complements exciting studies of the novel.

Atlas of the European Novel 1800-1900 ()

More than 20 years after the publication of the first European Breeding Bird Atlas, this book is the most up-to-date source of information on distribution, abundance and change of bird populations in Europe. A tremendous effort by the European Bird Census Council and its partner organisations from 48 countries have made it possible.

Atlas of the European Novel, 1800-1900 - Franco Moretti ...

Atlas of the European Novel is unlike previous literary atlases in that it is happily saturated with historical consciousness and what it gives us, under the heading of geography, is in fact a brilliantly original form of literary history. At a time when the question 'is literary history possible?' is doing the fashionable rounds, it is no mean feat to have given so resoundingly affirmative an answer to that question.
