That is one of the reasons, though not the only one, that I enjoyed reading The Lost Vintage— a novel by Ann Mah, which is set in Burgundy, not far from my (also very beautiful!) home in southern Champagne. The Lost Vintage includes many lyrical descriptions of the terrain, the sky, the rich greens, browns, and blues of Burgundy; and it ...

The Lost Vintage: A Novel: Amazon.co.uk: Mah, Ann ...

Ann Mah is an extraordinary writer, and her new book, The Lost Vintage, is a delicious concoction of mystery, deftly handled family drama, and a fascinating glimpse into the world of wine-making. A vineyard in Burgundy, secrets hidden since World War II, and two perfectly-balanced narratives (one contemporary, one set during the war), make this ...

The Lost Vintage follows the protagonist Kate as she travels to Burgundy to spend the fall at the vineyard estate that has belonged to her family for generations. She eventually discovers a hidden room containing a cot, some Resistance pamphlets, and an enormous cache of valuable wine. Her search will take her back to World War II and a relative she never knew existed, a great-half aunt who was a teenager during the Nazi occupation.

The Lost Vintage: A Novel Ann Mah. Shop Now. A mist floated over the vines, a fine spray that blurred the distant village and heightened the color of the grape leaves so they flashed against the grey sky. It was the third morning of the vendanges, and my sleeves were soaked with dew, my hands cold and slick, my back throbbing as I bent and stooped.
